

Pim Breebaart Research Award (PBRA) 2024

The Pim Breebaart Research Award (PBRA) is an annual award for inspiring research conducted at The Hague University of Applied Sciences. The Hague University of Applied Sciences initiated the award in 2010, the year in which Pim Breebaart left his position as President of the Executive Board.

The award contributes to the profile of THUAS as a knowledge institution.

With this prize we want to reward partnerships between research-education-practice. That is why we will award a prize to a team of THUAS staff members who jointly created a research project. We are looking for mixed teams composed of students, lecturers, researchers, professors and external relationships.

Objective

THUAS established this award to:

- promote its research programme both inside and outside
- encourage and challenge promising THUAS staff members to deliver outstanding achievements in the field of research
- appreciate and recognise staff members for who they are
- thank Pim Breebaart for his efforts towards making research a serious endeavour at The Hague University of Applied Sciences

Assessment criteria

Certain criteria apply when nominating the team:

- Quality of the research (prerequisite)
- Added value for education at THUAS
- Added value for research at THUAS
- Added practical value

The team

- is employed by The Hague University of Applied Sciences
- is stimulating the relationship between teaching and research by making a contribution to the teaching profession
- (some of) the research results will be published in open access

Please note that just as with previous presentations of this award, research in which the Lector played the major role, and (results of) PhD research, are excluded from participation.

The award

Euro 5,000,-. To devote to research, the money has to be spent in 2025.

The prize money cannot be spent at things for which the costs could have been compensated by the PhD grant.
